[REDACTED] It was incorrectly stated in a previous report that all Chinese Communist troops on the Kuantung Peninsula are now known as Peace Preservation Corps troops.)

Several months ago, when the Chinese Central Government complained to the Soviet Government that the take-over of Dairen and Port Arthur was hindered by the presence of many regular Chinese Communist troops, picked Chinese Communist/regulars were stationed in Port Arthur, Dairen, Chinchu (121-43, 39-07), and the towns and villages on the southern end of the Peninsula, by order of the Soviet authorities. These men were issued black uniforms, and the name, Peace Preservation Corps (Pao An Tui 保安隊), was given them. In June 1947 the Soviet authorities again changed the name, this time to Chih An Tui (治安隊), and called them Civil Police Corps. These men were picked from training classes on the basis of merit.

25X1A

[REDACTED] which states that these troops have been issued yellow summer uniforms and, in the Dairen area, have new insignia bearing the inscription, "Kuantung Administrative Headquarters" / 關東公署 /.
